A MOVEMENT is on foot to make October 12th—the anniversary of the discovery of America, a continental holiday.

WHEAT was lower last week, with a single exception, than at any time in the past twenty-four years. Some farmers think they are in this European war cloud a silver lining.

SECRETARY MANNING, of the Treasury department, is again at his desk, at least temporarily, much to the discomfort of the eminent Democratic financiers, who hoped to step into his shoes.

A NEW bear element has appeared in the oil market. A hoosier geologist has discovered that since the recent earthquake wells bored for gas or oil which had previously produced nothing are now yielding both gas and oil in considerable quantities.

NOTWITHSTANDING the vigorous working of the Buchanan letters, the Caldwell Journal says that many Democratic farmers in Noble county will cast their votes for Col. Taylor in preference to voting for a man who is under the control of a free trade party.

THE Memoirs of Gen. Grant have already brought to his wife $350,000. It is considered that the aggregate from the sale of the work will reach a half million dollars. The American nation does appreciate the distinguished services of their great war chieftain.

Tax President had not time to accompany the funeral train of the late Chief Justice Chase, nor even attend the transfer of the remains at the cemetery at Washington, on account of the pressure of public business, but he left for a fishing excursion soon after the train had departed for Ohio.

SHOULD the old world for any cause, want an extra supply of breadstuffs this season, the United States will be a good country to apply to. There will be a hundred million bushels more of wheat than last year, and the corn crop will probably amount to over one and a half billion bushels.

THE Democratic managers are sick and disheartened over their experiment in nominating demagogue McBride. Democratic farmers do not take kindly to a candidate who, under any pretense, gives expression to the sentiments uttered by McBride at Buchtel: "I trust I will be found in the ranks of the people—a socialist, if you like—a communist, if you like—nay, and more, an anarchist if you like."

THE party which held the colored men as slaves in this country, and which now makes them more wretched than before, by depriving them of their social and political rights, are now posing as the special friend. Colored men have but to remember the wrongs and outrages perpetrated upon their race by this same Democratic party, to convince them that they do not owe such a party any support.

N. B. SCOTT, formerly connected with glass business in Bellaire, was unanimously re-nominated for State Senator, by the Republicans of the Wheeling district. He is now President of the Central glass works of Wheeling, one of the most extensive table factories in the country. Mr. Scott will make it lively for his opponent, Mr. John O. Pendleton, a well-known Wheeling attorney, with the chances favorable to downing him.

A DISPATCH to the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette, says that the Sherman meeting at Cadiz, last Thursday, was the greatest Republican gathering that has been held in Harrison county for many years. Hon. John A. Bingham presided at the meeting, and introducing Senator Sherman mentioned the fact they two had first met in the Whig convention that nominated Taylor for President, and ever since had been on the same side of every prominent political question. Mr. Sherman spoke for two hours, his speech being received with the greatest enthusiasm by the crowd. It was one of the grandest Republican meetings that has been held in Eastern Ohio for years. There were people out from the hills and the hollows who have not been out for some time. The outlook for the Republicans was never better in Harrison county than at this time.

Election November 2d

HON. ABRAHAM S. HEWITT, who has just been nominated for Mayor of New York City, by Tammany, and endorsed by the county Democracy, is a Democrat of the simon pure brand, and his views on public questions, and especially on the subject of tariff reform, more nearly represent those of the great masses of the party than the carefully framed planks of the State or National platforms. He has the courage of his convictions, and talks right out in meeting. He claims that the Democratic party is pledged to free trade, and that while the change from the present system of protection should be gradual, it should be none the less radical. He wants the duties removed from raw materials first, in order that manufacturers may have a larger margin of profit to divide with their workmen, and says if his party fails to do this, the cry should be, "Turn the Democrats out." On general principles, most people will heartily agree on the latter with the next Mayor of New York, and will assist in doing the work when the time comes, but for reasons widely different from those given by Mr. Hewitt.

THE Republicans are fortunate in having upon their ticket for Infirmary directors, the names of two such worthy men as those of John A. Clark and Burgett McConnaughey. There are few men who more thoroughly appreciate the duties of the office to which we trust the people will call him than John A. Clark. In every element of his nature he is peculiarly qualified for the care of the unfortunate who are thrown upon public charity. He is a prudent and economical manager of his own affairs—a man of high moral standing, a Republican from deep-seated principle, deservingly the solid support of his party. Burgett McConnaughey, of Bridgeport, is a man of pure and upright life—of large experience as trustee—as often as he would accept the office of an important and populous township as Pease; an industrious and successful business man; an old-time, staunch Republican, and a war veteran with a proud record as a soldier of many battles. In all the positions to which he has been called, whether in peace or war, he has performed his duty honestly, manfully and faithfully. He will make a most excellent officer, and Republicans everywhere should stand as one man in his support.

Lung Fever Among Horses.

An agent of the Humane Society suggests the following precautions to owners of horses against the danger of lung fever:

There are many cases just now, and it is so every fall. The chilly rains and cool draughts will easily bring it on. No one should drive out now without a piece of oil or rubber cloth, and if it is only large enough to protect the spine and allow the rain to run off, it will protect the horse from catching cold when exposed to cool fall rain.

The lung fever can easily be detected. The horse will not eat, hang his head low, almost to the ground, and breathe hard. It will shake somewhat in the flanks, and in order to get relief it will rest one hind foot. When these symptoms are noticed, the horse should at once be given a pint of good whisky. Then add a pint of hot water and drench the animal. A wine bottle is the best for that. But if the horse has a regular chill give it the whisky, blanket it well and send it at once for a veterinary surgeon. If you live too far, apply at once a mustard plaster to the chest, over the lungs. Fresh air is essential, and the wind must not strike the sick animal. Care and constant watching till the lungs begin to eat its food well should never be omitted. Nevertheless, an ounce of preventive is better than a pound of cure.

If the agreement by which the political prohibition party justifies its cooperation with the associated liquor dealers in resisting the taxing of the trade in drink, were divested of the misleading words which convey a false impression of the nature of our government, it would have nothing left to stand on. Would a true cause use false words? If it is done ignorantly, are they who are ignorant of the primary elements of government safe teachers of the people?

The argument is reiterated incessantly that to tax the traffic in drink is to legalize it. This means to convey that the untaxed traffic is unlawful. Men, women and children who are ignorant of law and of the principles of free government, are told this by political preachers and prohibition party organs. Perhaps many who preach it are honest in thinking that drink-selling is by nature illegal, and that taxation makes it legal. The blind are leaders of the blind.

But is there one of them who will honestly say that the making and selling of all things is legal save as prohibited by statute; that the making and selling of intoxicating drink is by nature as lawful as the raising of wheat and the making of bread; that in government the rights and acts of man do not have to be legalized by enactment in order to be legal; that the selling of drink is as legal as the selling of potatoes and beans, and that the taxing of it no way changes its status before the law.

If this were honestly stated, the whole of the political prohibition argument against the taxing of this trade would disappear. All temperance people would say, let us lay a tax on this trade, any how, whether we are for prohibition or not. It is fair to the trade; it is fair to the public burdens to which the trade is related; it is needed for the public revenue; it will be in some degree a restraint, and it is not at all incompatible with the pursuit of the policy of prohibition.

Election November 2d

OUR Democratic candidates on the county ticket would have Republicans believe about election time that as candidates they are about half Republican. It is noticeable that every year when they are not candidates, they diligently use the influence of their offices to advance the general cause of Democracy.

THE town of Sabine Pass, Texas, was totally destroyed by the overflow of the Sabine river, on Thursday, and about one hundred lives lost. The details of the loss of life and property, and the distress of persons who simply escaped with their lives, present a picture which should enlist the sympathy of the more fortunate everywhere.

The Magazine of Art.
With its November number the Magazine of Art sends the tenth year of its valuable existence and closes the volume for 1886. The frontispiece is a reproduction in brown of Sir Joshua's famous portrait of the Hon. Miss Ann Bingham, painted in 1765. The title is illustrated by a facsimile of Shakespeare's gloves which is illustrated among others by a facsimile of the Hon. Miss Ann Bingham's portrait. KOEHLER, who for several years has been the literary editor of the Magazine of Art, published by Cassell and Company, Limited, has resigned his position to devote himself more closely to creative literary work. ## Harper's Monthly.

THE charms of country highways are beautifully described and illustrated by William Hamilton Gibson in the November Harper's. His title is "A Plea for the Grass Road," and he argues with the enthusiasm of an earnest lover of nature against the prevailing tendency for "improving" the rural lanes and old roads by obliterated their beauty.

Penitentiary Outrage Fully Proven.

The Democratic state executive committee is devoting its energies to defending ex-officers of the penitentiary for skimming dead convicts. Governor Foraker's eloquent and forcible arraignment nearly paralyzed them, but they have now succeeded in turning around for liars who are willing to make oath that human bodies were not skinned.

They have found several—most of them being members of the gang which ran the penitentiary or were beneficiaries of the crooked tactics of the skimmers. One of the most notorious of these was a fellow named John Smith, who was found dead in the state with affidavits from the crooked, through party men, have sworn to matters they know nothing about. Joel S. Skiles, a reputable citizen of Columbus, has sworn that he saw Dr. Montgomery skin dead convicts and put the hide in a basket in the presence of the convict Nye, who, with another prisoner, swears that the skins were made into cases by Nye. The cases have been produced, and proved to be of human skin by Dr. Kinsman, a leading physician and eminent microscopist. A Democratic tanner of Columbus has testified that Dr. Montgomery brought a human hide to him to tan, and other convincing and unanswerable evidence in the same line has been produced.

What are these affidavits the Democrats are flooding the state with? One of them is from Dr. Obetz, who was forced to resign from the deaf and dumb asylum by Governor Foraker, belongs to Dr. Montgomery's party, and takes this mode for these reasons:—He was not accepted as an unbiased witness. He swears that the bodies Governor Foraker said were skinned were brought to a medical college for dissection unutilized. Dr. Montgomery himself says they were buried in the penitentiary grounds. Thus their own stories conflict. Others swear that application was made to the penitentiary authorities for those bodies by medical colleges, which is undoubtedly true, as all dead bodies of the penitentiary grounds.
